$3,203 GIVEN TO SWIMMING POOL FUND THUS FAR

Drive To Continue For Several Days; Plan Pie Suppers

A total of $3,203.35 has been contributed toward a fund of $8,000 to build a public swimming pool here, it was announced on Wednesday night, one week after the drive started.

The first week's report was made at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club whose members are making the solicitations among business and professional groups. Additional solicitations will be made by other groups—the woman's club will solicit personal contributions, and the Scouts will take care of cash donations in containers to be placed in stores next week. Other groups will aid as the drive progresses. Solicitations will be continued for several days. Additional funds will be raised by pie suppers and entertainments.

In addition to the $3,203.35 raised thus far, several large contributions have been promised. Nearby towns also will be asked to help raise the needed funds since the pool may be used by rural people and those from nearby towns.

Much help in the way of labor, equipment and materials also has been promised, and it is believed construction can be started soon on the 30x90-foot pool which will be built on the public playground. Contributions received in addition to those reported last week are—

WE GET PHOTOSTATS OF 5th KY. REGT. MUSTER ROLLS

The Courier this week received from Congressman Carl D. Perkins photostat copies of the muster rolls of Companies A, B, C, D, and E of the Fifth Kentucky Mounted Infantry, Confederate States of America, organized in West Liberty and Prestonsburg in October of 1861 by Col. A. J. May. The muster rolls contain hundreds of Morgan names, surnames of many families in our county. The photostat sheets are 18x22 inches, two for each company, and are valuable additions to the historical papers of Morgan county being collected by the Courier for preservation.

Congressman Perkins secured the muster rolls from the War Department in Washington and had photostat copies made and presented them to the Courier for the benefit of Morgan county people. We have bound the sheets in a folder and they may be seen by any of our readers.

Company A was composed entirely of Morgan men, 108 of them, and they were sworn in at West Liberty Oct. 21, 1861 and mustered into service at Prestonsburg the same day. This was Capt. Wm. Myrnhier's company (later Maj. Myrnhier).

Many men in the other companies were Morgan countians, some from what is now Elliott and Wolfe and some being from Breathitt.

The Fifth Kentucky Mounted Infantry was later placed under the command of Gen. John S. Williams and fought throughout

Regional Farm Bureau Meeting Here Friday

County Farm Bureau officials from eight Eastern Kentucky counties will meet in West Liberty Friday of this week to plan county meetings to discuss what farmers want in a federal farm program.

The meeting is one of 19 being conducted this month in Kentucky by the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation. No issue will be decided at the regional meeting here but informational facts will be presented so that county Farm Bureau officials may conduct community and county meetings of farmers. Community meetings are designed to get a grass roots opinion on a new farm program bill to be submitted to Congress next January.

Democratic Digest For August Tells Record of Congress

The September issue of the Democratic Digest—which will be on newsstands across the nation this week—features detailed analysis of the actions of the first session of the 83rd Congress entitled, "How Democrats Saved Ike From His Own Party."

The article points out that "the President's real enemies are in his own Party, and his efforts to placate the implacable Republicans have placed him in some unfortunate situations. He apparently does not feel that he can afford to acknowledge the timely assistance he receives from Democrats, even though that cooperation makes all the difference between success and failure for his administration. The article adds that, 'at times he seems to feel that he must appear to be giving the opposition a scorching in a manner that the Old Guard will approve.'

Another major article entitled "The Hucksters," finds that the slogans of the new Administration are round, firm and fully packed, but observes hopefully that, "Fortunately there seems to be a growing awareness within the Administration itself that the problems of the day can only be solved by facts and not fiction."

Other articles include "It's a Girl . . . in the Los Angeles City Council," "AD-X2, or How to Turn Epsom Salts into Gold."

A special article tells how a tax law injustice brings hardships to working mothers and their children.

The initial issue of the Digest resulted in a sellout.

HOMEcoming SET HERE AUGUST 29

As was announced recently in the Courier the annual homecoming for Matthew T. Scott, Jr., collegiate Institute and Morgan County high school alumni has been set for Saturday, Aug. 29 at the cafeteria at Morgan County high school. Postcards for making reservations have been mailed to many who wish to attend the event and these should be returned to Mrs. L. C. Long, West Liberty, as soon as possible. However, Miss Floris Cox, president, wants resident of West Liberty and Morgan county to know that they will not receive postcards, but they should contact Mrs. Long for a reservation. It was impossible to send cards to everyone, and the committee thought those in this vicinity could notify each other and make reservations.

A big crowd is expected to be here for the occasion.

THIRD CASE OF POLIO DEVELOPS IN ELLIOTT CO.

Request For Gamma Globulin Refused; Schools Open Late

SANDY HOOK, Ky., Aug. 11.—Health Nurse Alice Dixon received word Saturday that the illness of the 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clark of Ault had been diagnosed as polio by physicians in Lexington where the child was sent by Dr. Greene. This is the third case in that neighborhood within the past two weeks. Dewey A. Creech, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Creech died last week, and his sister, Lucille, 7, is in Lexington now in an iron lung. The Creeches live near the Elliott-Rowan line.

Dr. Greene and Nurse Dixon thought mass immunization of children in that neighborhood advisable and Dr. Greene requested about 200 doses of gamma globulin, but his request was rejected by the health office at Louisville because they ruled that Elliott county would have to have five cases to be considered epidemic and be eligible for mass immunization.

The beginning of schools in Elliott county has been put off one week until Wednesday, Aug. 19, to see if the polio epidemic spreads further. If it has not spread the schools will open Aug. 19.

Plan Morgan Sheep Program Farmers to Meet Friday, 21st

"I know of no more ideal area for sheep than Morgan county," sheep specialist tells Morgan group. 100 ewes will clear $3,000 a year, and the dog problem is no worse here than elsewhere in Kentucky.

Morgan Held Ideal Area For Sheep; Dog Problem Termed False Bugaboo

Longterm Outlook for Sheep Is Bright Spot In Livestock Picture

A group of sheep raisers, business men and agricultural officials, meeting here last Friday to determine if a large scale sheep program would be practicable in Morgan county, agreed to a man that dogs are scaring Morgan farmers away from what could be their most profitable livestock enterprise.

But Richard C. Miller, Kentucky extension agent in sheep and the nation's foremost sheep authority, declared the dog problem is no different here than all over Kentucky. And three Morgan sheepmen and those attending agreed that the dog problem would disappear if Morgan farmers commenced a sheep industry.

"The dog problem will solve itself automatically when we get sheep," Wallace Blankenship of near Mize told the group. Blankenship has the largest flock of sheep in the county and said he plans to increase his flock to 100 breeding ewes.

Two other Morgan sheepmen—Ren Morris of Caney and Bill Phillips of Licking River—agreed with Blankenship and the extension sheep specialist that the dog scare is a false bugaboo—but one that is keeping a lot of farmers from starting a sheep program. Likewise, the three sheepmen said fencing is not a problem, and the belief that sheep require expensive fencing can be discounted to a great extent if Morgan farmers really want to raise sheep.

Another bugaboo that has plagued those who in the past have sought to start a sheep program in Morgan, too, was dispelled at the conference. Many old timers contended that sheep and cattle don't do well together. Mr. Miller and the three Morgan sheepmen agreed that sheep and cattle running together make more profit.

With these three bugaboos discounted, at least minimized to a large extent, by those with experience and qualified to speak, the group proposed a countywide meeting to be held for farmers here August 21 to determine how many are interested in starting a sheep industry on their farms.

"Sheep are less trouble, eat less feed and make more money than any other type of livestock," Mr. Blankenship stated. And he runs a hundred head of cattle on his farm in addition to some 80 sheep and 40 hogs.

"A flock of 100 breeding ewes will make $3,000 clear a year," Mr. Miller told the group.

And he added, "I don't know of any area in Kentucky so well suited as Morgan county for sheep."

Mr. Blankenship spoke up, "I know by experience we've got the best land for sheep—better than in the Bluegrass section, because I've raised sheep both in Jessamine and Morgan. I tried both the Bluegrass and Morgan. We never have foot rot in hill fields like they have in Central Kentucky. And it doesn't cost so much to get in the sheep business here as on high priced Bluegrass land," he added.

All agreed that the dog problem is scaring Morgan farmers away from a profitable enterprise, and all agreed that the scare was largely a bugaboo.

"We've got to show people it will work," Mr. Blankenship declared. "You'll never solve the dog problem until you start sheep," Mr. Miller said. Asked by District Extension Agent Lickert if there is enough profit in sheep to allow for a few to be killed by dogs, Mr. Phillips said emphatically, "Yes, there's

U. K. SPECIALIST ON SHEEP WILL SPEAK AUG. 21

Tour of Sheep Farms To Be Conducted In County Day Before

A meeting of all farmers who think they might be interested in raising sheep will be held at the theatre in West Liberty Friday, August 21 at 9:30 a.m.

The meeting was planned after a meeting of sheep growers and other interested citizens at the County Agent's office last Friday. The meeting is being held to present the facts of modern sheep raising and spring lamb production to those farmers who want to learn about it. The opportunities for sheep production in Morgan county will be discussed. There will be movies and experiences of some of the Morgan county sheep growers.

Richard Miller, extension specialist in sheep, will be here to lead the discussion. He met with the group last Friday. Mr. Miller will visit Morgan county sheep growers on Thursday with County Agent Charlie Dixon. The growers will meet with leaders from around the county on the farm of Wallace Blankenship on the Hazel Green-Mize road, Thursday afternoon at 1:30 to study Mr. Blankenship's program.

The meeting next Friday will have these experiences repeated. In the afternoon next Friday those farmers who are interested in obtaining sheep will meet at the County Agent's office to make plans for buying foundation stock and arrange a training program to learn how to care for the sheep.

Listen to Mr. Whitt's radio program next Wednesday and hear Mr. Blankenship tell about his experience with sheep.

Those attending the meeting last week, besides the three sheep growers mentioned above, were Earl Kinner, B. E. Whitt, W. G. Ratliff, Prichard Caskey, Bernard Hill, County Agent Charlie Dixon and Assistant County Agent Claude O. Christian and their supervisor, R. H. Lickert.

East Kentucky Vo-Ag Teachers Have Meet

Thirty-two vocational agriculture teachers from the 17 counties composing the Eastern Kentucky district of vocational agriculture teachers attended a district meeting in West Liberty Tuesday, conducted by D. E. Bayless, district supervisor of vo-ag teachers.

Principal topic discussed was the method of enrolling Korean War veterans for institutional on-the-farm training.

Albert Dorsey of Ezel told of the plan to build an Eastern Kentucky cabin at the State FFA camp at Hardinsburg. Each FFA chapter has pledged to raise $100 to help build the cabin, which will be used as housing for Eastern Kentucky FFA members and teachers attending the annual camp.

DR. ADOLPHUS GILLIAM

HARMONY IN MARRIAGE

This subject is, I am sure, very familiar to all of you and so much is being said about it that a person hardly knows where to begin. But I do want to talk about one of the most important things in the life of a country, in the life of the individuals and the home, and that is how to find harmony in marriage. Samuel Johnson once said, "To be happy at home is the ultimate result of all ambition." Personally I am a lover of home. To me, family ties are a part of the unpurchasable things that we may possess. They can be very strong and they can be very wholesome and beautiful. Goethe once said, "He is happiest who finds peace in his own home." When Cicero made his observations about the home about two thousand years ago he said, "The home is the empire; there is no peace more delightful than one's own fireplace." It will William Lyon Phelps in his famous essay on "Marriage" who said, "The greatest of all arts is the art of living together!"

It is well understood that the degree of success or failure of marriage depends on both the husband and the wife. Much is being said today from platform and in textbooks and from specialists in this field with an attempt to alleviate the disturbing situation in the modern home. It is my personal view that much of this is overshooting the mark and yet I place much value on it. I believe that the simple truth and facts are the elements that are needed today to create and sustain harmony in marriage. I want to just name a few of these as points that I think are important.

The first thing I would call to your mind is—learn to respect the differences of each other. We all know that the chances of seeing alike by two people in all matters are very rare. It is pretty well understood that we take each other for better or worse and it is much better to learn to love the person for what he is and not for what we would like him to be. Not many years ago a young wife told me about her own problem in the home. She wanted a model husband. She had a good husband; he was not exactly what she wanted him to be in manners and other little idiosyncrasies and she continually harassed him for it. She told me that things were not as good as they had been before and then we had a long talk and my advice to her was to take him as he was and try to love him for what he was and not for the things that she hoped to make him. I had the very blessed privilege not long ago of having that same wife tell me of the beauty and harmony in her home and that now she loved her husband for what he really was, and she had learned that her foolish approach was destroying the happiness of her home.

The second thing—recognize the worth of each other's contributions. It is not easy to do this because too many people seek to have their own way and to work the program of the home out in a kind of dictatorship, make demands, and forget the contributions that the partner makes in this. If there is any place in the world that we must have a partnership, and if it is going to be successful, it is in the home. So why not evaluate the good and the contributions of each other that can and do go to make for harmony.

Neither is the third thing easy to do and some people seem to not have much knack for it and that is to cultivate a sense of humor. You know if you want to bring death to romance just bring gloom and anxiety in the home, but many a sad thing and many a terrific problem and some serious misunderstandings can be directed out the door and away from each other by just some good sense of humor. Too often we do not seem to have time to undertake to do that and consequently we let gloom take the place where good humor might have had a footing.

IN OL' MORGAN

the war. In the fighting from Chickamauga to Atlanta the Fifth Kentucky was known as the Orphan's Brigade and lost about half its men.

The muster rolls furnished the Courier are from the reports of Col. John S. Williams in a report made from his camp at Pound Gap, Virginia Nov. 23, 1861.

Captains of each company and the dates their members were sworn into service follow—
Co. A, A. J. May (later Capt. Wm. Mynhier), Oct. 21, 1861.
Co. B, James K. Hunter, captain, Oct. 21, 1861.
Co. C, I (later Co. D), Henry C. Swango, captain, Oct. 25, 1861.
Co. C, Hiram Hawkins, captain, Oct. 19, 1861.
Co. E, Thomas B. Worsham, captain, Oct. 24, 1861.

Most of the men were sworn in at West Liberty and mustered into service at Prestonsburg. Capt. Swango's company comprising men from southwestern Morgan county in what is now Wolfe county, was not mustered in until the regiment reached Pound Gap Oct. 25. They were evidently too late for the muster at West Liberty and went on to join the regiment in Virginia.

Judge Ed. C. O'Rear has written a history of the Fifth Kentucky which the Courier will reprint soon, and will include a full list of the muster rolls.

THE OLD DINNER BELL

Fifty years ago nearly every home had an old dinner bell on a locust post about twelve feet high just outside the kitchen door. The bell served many purposes and could be heard four or five miles on a still day. The sound coming over the hills or down the valley was familiar to every ear.

The first purpose of the bell was the call to dinner. The men working in the fields had no watches and when dinner was ready the wife rang the bell. Even the old mule plowing knew to stop and I remember one that would not make another step when the bell rang. It meant dinner to the mule and to the boys and men in the fields. The sound was sweet music to a tired and hungry worker—I know.

The second important function of the dinner bell was an alarm. If the bell rang late at night or at times other than dinner, it meant a call for a neighbor. Maybe some one was sick or was in need of help.

Then there was another alarm sounded sometimes. It might be up some hollow where there was a still. The "Revenooers" were on their way and it meant to get the still out or get away.

Then there was the same old school bell which was the same as the dinner bell and rang at eight o'clock.

Ralph Brown and I visited the Squire Nickell school recently and saw their old bell still on the post, rusty but when we pulled the string, it floated out to far away places the old familiar sound.

Then there was the church bell which often was the same as the school bell, and it rang on Sabbath mornings for church. Then there was the legal bell. The court house bell.

West Liberty's court room has the old bell that is half a hundred years old. The jailer or sheriff rings it.

As times moves on the bells cease to ring. New homes are built but no post and bell. Fifty years hence there will be no bells. But fifty years ago the bell was a part of every home, every school, every church, every public building. There was about it something that we loved to hear. But time moves on and changes are certain. But the old dinner bell will never be forgotten by those who listened for it and ran for dinner when it rang.

SUCCESS STORY

Must of the success stories we have used in the Courier relate to men. This story comes from the Teachers College at Greenville, North Carolina. It is the brief story of a Morgan county girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buell Picklesimer of Maytown, Morgan county.

Twenty-five years ago she went to the college at Greenville, later graduating and obtaining her masters degree. One of her professors in economics was Dr. Beecher Flannagan. She learned the rule to "love your teacher" and they were married. Both taught and lived near the campus until his death about a year ago. Since then she has continued to teach and lives at 401 Library, Greenville, N. C.

Last week she attended the Whitt reunion in Ohio and came on to Maytown to visit her mother and Mrs. John Whitt of Magoffin county.

It was a pleasure to have her and her cousin Luther Whitt of Lockland, Ohio, visit the Courier office last Friday and talk about education in that college and state. No teacher begins with less than a degree and $3600 a year salary.

Jewell Haney, postmistress at Malone, had a letter recently from Edwin S. Malone III of Vernon, Texas, asking who the Malone postoffice was named for. Mr. Malone's family was from Kentucky. The post office was named for Malone Lykins. Does anyone know whether or not Malone Lykins was related to the Malones?

Korean Vets Can Join On the Farm Training

Applications are now being taken from Korean War veterans for institutional on-the-farm training in Morgan county under the new Public Law No. 550.

This year's class in on-the-farm training will be started Sept. 3 by the vocational agriculture department of the Morgan County board of education, Paul Williams instructor.

World War II veterans who are disabled also may apply for the on-the-farm training under the old law PL 16.

BURLEY ESTIMATE RISES

The Federal Crop Reporting Board this week estimated total production of burley tobacco this season at 579,000,000 pounds, an increase of ten million pounds over its July forecast. The estimate is 71 million pounds under the 1952 crop but is above the ten-year average production. The season to date has been generally favorable in most burley areas, the report said.

Gordon Huff, veteran staff writer for the Louisville Times, has been added to the Kentucky Bookmobile Project's Planning committee. Mr. Huff is the project's new director of publicity.

TRAINING SCHOOL

a Hereford weighing 514 pounds which he plans to sell.

The next stop was at the home of Jimmy Benton. Jimmy's calf, a fine Hereford Steer, weighed 692 pounds. Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Dixon, county agent, gave a discussion on care of baby calves.

The first stop after dinner was at the home of Scottie Fugate. Scottie has a Hereford steer that weighs 645 pounds. Mr. Wheeler demonstrated shearing a beef animal for show purpose. The tourists enjoyed cold lemonade which was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Cummings Fugate.

Glenn Oldfield, another 4-H beef project boy, brought out a 845 pound Hereford steer.

The next stop was at the home of Roger Nickell of Mize. Roger not only has the largest Hereford steer weighing 1,084 pounds, but has the best trained animal. He had his steer put on a one steer act of walking a log at his command and to mount a box. The steer was rewarded with an ear of corn for his excellent performance.

Glenn Rowland of Ezel has a nice little Hereford-Guernsey heifer that weighs 320 pounds. It is her intention to raise this calf and use it in the Kentucky cow and calf program.

The last stop on the tour was at the home of Walter Thomas Vest of Bonny. Walter has a fine polled Hereford steer that weighs 813 pounds. This was the only polled animal seen on the tour.

Also on the tour were some of our best beef breeders Russell Lane and father, W. B. Lane and Courtney Lane and Tommy Oldfield. Others attending were Kash Bach, Bishop Benton, Everett Nickell, Marion Rowland, T. H. Vest, Glenn Oldfield, Mrs. Tommy Oldfield and Tommy, the above mentioned members. Linda Rowland, Iris Lea and Robert Adkins, and Claude O. Christian, assistant county agent.

LACY CREEK 4-H CLUB

The Lacy Creek 4-H club met at the school house Tuesday afternoon. The program consisted of a report on individual project work. Mr. Christian, assistant county agent, was well pleased with progress in the work. Taking part in the program were: Eddith and Denny Pack, Aquilla Conley, Earl Bolin, Louise, Judy and Shirley McGuire.

Visitors were Leova Williams, Opal Elam, 16 school children, Mrs. Conley, the leader, and Mr. Christian.

August Is Proclaimed Green Pastures Month

Governor Lawrence Wetherby has officially proclaimed August as green pasture month in Kentucky. In keeping with the Kentucky Green Pasture committee's desire to make Kentucky truly the "Center of the Pasture Belt" and restore the state's place as a leader in the livestock industry, the Governor has issued the following proclamation:

WHEREAS, the Green Pastures Program is an important one for Kentuckians, its purpose being to assist farmers in rebuilding the soil and to stress the need of keeping it in good condition; and, WHEREAS, during August each year special emphasis is placed upon the production and utilization of grasses and legumes; and,

WHEREAS, when the soil, Kentucky's most valuable resource, is made richer, the economic status of her citizens will improve;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Lawrence W. Wetherby, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby proclaim the month of August, 1953, as GREEN PASTURES MONTH IN KENTUCKY and request that the farmers participate in this worthwhile program for green pastures, and that all other citizens of the Commonwealth observe the efforts and accomplishments of a project designed to make Kentucky a better place in which to live.

At Frankfort, Kentucky, this the eighteenth day of June in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and fifty-three, and in the year of the Commonwealth of the one hundred and sixty-second.

Homemakers Plan Clothing Projects For This Year

Clothing project leaders from the Morgan county Homemakers Clubs met July 8 and set up their lesson plans for the year. The homemakers have selected clothing for their major project for the year. Miss Verna Latzke, Extension Clothing Specialist for the University of Kentucky, led the planning meeting.

Two leaders from each club will meet each month, except August and December, to learn the lesson. They will then teach the lesson to their respective clubs. Representatives of the Singer Sewing Machine Company will teach the lesson July 29 on sewing machine attachments. This will be the club lesson for August. In September the clubs will study new fabrics and their use in a lesson called clothing guides. Beginning in September Miss Latzke will train the leaders according to the schedule at the end of this article. Leaders at the planning meeting included Mrs. Boyd Blair, president; Mrs. Dorothy Rose and Mrs. John Eastterling of the Progressive Club; Mrs. Luther Reed and Mrs. Walter Barker, Caney; Mrs. Bishop Benton, Index; Mrs. Major Gardner and Mrs. Edward Gevedon, West Liberty; Mrs. Ellis Cassidy and Mrs. Homer Easterling, Blairs Mills; Mrs. G. ## A Nation Cannot Be Ignorant And Free, Dr. Tant Says In Address

Dr. Norman Tant, associate professor of education at Morehead State College, in a recent address over station WMTC said, "If a nation expects to be ignorant and free in a state of civilization, it expects what never was and never will be."

During the last year Dr. Tant said he had driven nine thousand miles over the highways from Morehead to West Liberty, Harland, Hazard, Paintsville and other places to teach extension courses, working with and visiting one room schools, and finds that Kentucky is faced with a very serious problem.

The phrase, "State Minimum Foundation Program of Education" means that we cannot afford to do less than a certain amount in the education of the children in the state, regardless of what county they happen to be born in or how much wealth that county has.

For Eastern Kentucky in general it means the children should have better educational opportunities.

Most people agree that all children ought to have a chance to go to school in a decent building and in that building there should be decent desks, decent light and heat, that the teacher of those children should get a reasonable salary. It should not matter if the children happen to live in the mountains or in the big cities—they are all Kentucky's children.

It is not right for counties with a lot of children and not much wealth to have to put forth ten times as much tax effort to give their children half as good an education as a wealthy county to give its children.

A state minimum foundation program of education undertakes to guarantee that every child in the state will have an opportunity to get an adequate education without overburdening the taxpayer in the community where they happen to be. There is too much difference at present from county to county over the state in the educational opportunities offered.

Dr. Tant said that every school in Georgia has a nine months term, free textbooks, tape recorders, good buildings, good school buses, and that the teachers earn almost twice what the Kentucky teachers do. How did it happen?

The people of Georgia decided that their children should be getting a better education. And they went to the polls and voted such a program in effect.

How does it work?

First, how many children are there to be educated in a district? They do not put out money unless the child is being educated. How much does the school program cost? How much taxable wealth does the district have?

In conclusion Dr. Tant said a state-guaranteed minimum education program is essential if we are to establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity.

In every way, more car for your money !

Ford gives you V-8 power like that of costly cars... fine car build... fine car ride and 'at-home-everywhere' good looks - but the price tag never moves out of the low-price field

Everywhere you go people are making the swing to Ford. And can you blame them? Many cars costing over $1000 more offer no more of the things you need and want. Here are some of Ford's "Worth More" features... but to get the full Ford "Worth More" story, Test Drive a new Ford today!

Less front-end road shock. The kind of shock you feel most is reduced up to 80% with Ford's new ride. You get a smoother, more balanced, more comfortable ride all around!

Suspended pedals are designed to work easier and make foot space of your Ford's entire floor area. Suspended pedals are also a "keep out" sign to dirt and drafts... make it easier to keep the floor clean!

Smooth V-8 power is exclusive to Ford in its field. And Ford's Mileage Maker is the most modern Six you can own! Both the V-8 and Six-cylinder power plants deliver their hill-leveling "go" on regular gas—and not much of that, thanks to Ford's Automatic Power Pilot!

An extra suitcase will fit into Ford's luggage compartment—the roomiest in the low-price field. In fact, Ford's combined luggage and passenger space is the greatest in the low-price field... compares with that of many cars of higher price.

Center-Fill Fueling permits filling your Ford from either side... saves you time when refueling... and puts an end to hose scratches on your fender!

Curved one-piece windshield (below) and large picture windows, give Ford the most "look out" area in the low-price field... another reason your Ford is worth more when you buy it... worth more when you sell it!

SHEEP

enough profit to allow for some losses. It's been five years since I've lost any sheep."

Mr. Morris said he had never lost any sheep by marauding dogs.

Mr. Blankenship said the dogs killed several sheep in his flock about five years ago, but since then he had lost only three. Woven Wire Fence Not Needed
High priced woven wire fencing is not needed to start sheep, it was agreed. Mr. Blankenship said he had a woven wire fence between his farm and his neighbors but that the rest of his farm was fenced with barbed wire for cattle with one extra strand of wire at the bottom. Mr. Phillips said he hardly had any fence at all, but found that sheep from the Western range ewes will stay pretty well in the field you put them in, even without good fencing. Mr. Morris was the only one who said he had his fields fenced completely with woven wire.

Mr. Miller agreed with Mr. Phillips that the Western ewes, which are the ones most widely used in Kentucky, do not require woven wire fencing and they are trained to stay where the herdsman puts them.

Sheep and Cattle Together
Mr. Miller said further that repeated tests over a long period have proven that sheep and cattle running together make the most profit. "Cattle," he said, "eat the bigger and coarser herbage, and the sheep eat the finer and tender herbage. One complements the other, making more profitable use of the pastures. Of course, they must be moved from one field to another at times," he added.

Mr. Miller recognized everywhere as America's top sheep authority, told the Morgan County long-time outlook for sheep is "one of the brightest things in livestock."

The sheep population in the nation has decreased over 40 percent compared to the pre-war times, but our nation is buying twice as much wool as pre-war and thus must import most of it. Spring lambs also are in short supply although the demand for spring lambs for meat is growing. The western range country has lost over half of its sheep flocks in recent years he said, due mostly to the high prices demanded by herdsman.

"We're trying to double the sheep population in Kentucky to meet the demand," he said.

Right now Kentucky produces most of the nation's spring lambs. And two-thirds of Kentucky's sheep industry is centered in the Bluegrass counties around Lexington—the highest priced farm land in America. Yet I've had Bourbon county farmers tell me they couldn't make it without sheep."

Western Kentucky in late years is expanding its sheep industry, and now some of the State's best production records come from Western counties, Mr. Miller said.

"But," he added, "I've never seen an area better suited to sheep than Morgan county."

"Eastern Kentucky ought to have a million and a half breeding ewes, and Morgan might well have fifty thousand of them," he said.

"I hope Morgan will take advantage of the great opportunity it has and I hope Morgan farmers will be pioneers in spreading the sheep industry to other eastern counties," he said.

"Good breeding ewes average over 1½ lambs a season, and any fairly good sheepman can produce 100 pounds of lamb per ewe—some produce as much as 150 pounds of lamb per ewe. Spring lambs for meat are bringing $24 to $26 a hundred now," he told the group. "One hundred ewes will clear $3,000 a year," he added.

"And through lean years and fat years sheep have been the one livestock that has paid a profit every year."

"Down in some Western Kentucky counties that started their sheep industry only a few years ago, some of the farmers have told me they made more clear money on sheep than from any other farm enterprise."

LONNIE SMITH EXPRESSES THANKS

Many candidates become bitter when they are defeated. I want to say to the people of Morgan county that I hold no bitterness or anger toward anyone because of the election. I don't mean by that that I was not disappointed in being defeated. There were certain ones here and there who didn't live up to their promise, but that is for them to worry about.

I take this means of expressing my congratulations to Aaron Lyons. If he had opposition this fall I would support him. I ran as a Democratic candidate and I intend to support the Democratic ticket in the coming November election.

My thanks and best wishes are extended to the many friends who worked for my nomination. I appreciate their help more than I can express in words. And to the many voters who had confidence enough in me to vote for me, I desire to express my sincere thanks.

LONNIE SMITH

Homemakers To Study Machine Attachments At Aug. Lesson Meets

Members of the Morgan County Homemakers clubs are studying sewing machine attachments as their August lesson. This is preparatory to their study of basic clothing principles as their next project this year.

The leaders from seven of the eight Homemakers clubs met recently at the West Liberty Christian church for a training lesson on attachments by Miss Stears and Mr. Cobb of Singer Sewing Machine Company's Winchester office. Each leader had with her her machine attachments and learned how to use them. Some of the women were very pleased to learn how to use attachments which they had owned for years but did not know for what use they were intended. Each attachment will do some job better with less time.

Leaders present were Mrs. Luther Reed and Mrs. Walter Barker of the Caney club, Mrs. Herman Arnett and Mrs. Hayden Ratliff of the Stacy Fork club, Mrs. Major Gardner and Mrs. Ed Gevedon of the West Liberty club, Mrs. John Easterling and Mrs. Harold Rose, Progressive club, Mrs. G. C. Allen and Mrs. M. M. Lewis, Licking River, Mrs. Bishop Benton of the Index club, Mrs. Homer Easterling and Mrs. Ellis Cassidy of the Blairs Mill club.

TO CONFESS DEGREES

Highland Masonic Lodge of West Liberty will put on work in all degrees at its regular meeting Saturday night of this week.

By SCOTT MEADE

"Everytime you look in a mirror catch yourself smiling."

We've all heard the old expression "Laughter is the best medicine" or "A happy mind is a healthy body"—and lately the medical profession has done much to confirm the wisdom of these observations. It has been proven conclusively that anger, with its accompanying rise in blood pressure and accelerated heartbeat only injures the person who is angered . . . and by the same token a relaxed attitude and the ability to laugh can do much to improve the physical state.

So before taking some unnecessary medicine, let's first try a belly-laugh regularly, before and after meals. In today's trying times a deliberate effort to relax and take everyday petty annoyances in our stride can not only increase life expectancy but make life for ourselves and our loved ones so much more enjoyable.—WEST LIBERTY FUNERAL HOME, Ph. 143.

Express Rates To Go Up 15 Percent

The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the Railway Express Agency to raise its rates an average of about 15 percent to meet higher wages and operating costs.

The increase can become effective before October 1 on 15 days notice to the public. It will cost shippers about $55,000,000 a year.

Rates for shipments of milk, cream, newspapers and corpses were not increased.

DRAFT BOARD NOTICE

The Morgan County Selective Service Board asks the Courier to remind selectees again that those who claim deferment by reason of fatherhood should file the claim of pregnancy of their wife by August 25 since deferment on these grounds will be discontinued after that date.

KECK SPECIAL JUDGE IN BREATHITT RECOUNT

Circuit Judge John A. Keck of Sandy Hook was appointed special judge by the Court of Appeals to preside in the Breathitt circuit court at a recount of votes in the Democratic primary contests for sheriff and jailer in Breathitt county. He went to Jackson Wednesday morning to start the recount.

DUVAL WITHDRAWS

Atty. Ora F. Duval of Olive Hill this week withdrew as the Democratic candidate for State Senator in the 32nd district composed of Elliott, Carter, Lewis and Greenup counties, leaving Harry Davis of Grayson, Republican nominee, unopposed in the November election. Both Duval and Davis won their nominations without opposition in the primary. Duval said business reasons and finances caused him to withdraw.

CORRECTION IN VOTE

Clyde Lewis won the Democratic nomination for Magistrate District No. 3 by a margin of 19 votes instead of 99 as the Courier stated last week in its tabulation of the August 1 primary voting. Lewis' total in the five precincts was 305 instead of 385. Collins received 286 votes.

One other mistake occurred in the tabulation. Reed Halsey received 164 votes to 67 for B. T. Morris in Ward 4 instead of 164 to 187 for Morris as carried in the tabulation.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Ralph Holbrook, 26, son of Charles Holbrook of Elkfork, and Lillian June Ball, 18, daughter of Thurman Ball, of West Liberty.
